

1 Voice of Agent 1: “Good job, Natasha! How did you get your hands on this information?”

2 Voice of Agent 3: “Oh, it was easy! These people are so naïve about security!”

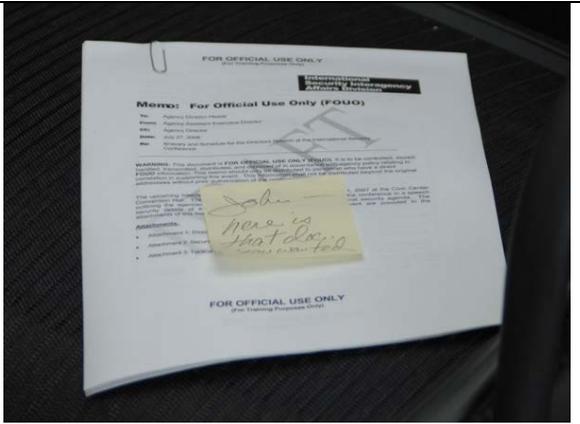

3 The custodian is working her way through the office, emptying cubicle trash cans.

4 She spots a memo sitting on a chair in a cubicle.

5 The memo concerns the Senior Government Executive's speech on Project X at the Convention Center. Included on the memo is a list of key personnel who will be in attendance. The paper is marked on the bottom "For Official Use Only."

6 Later, as the custodian removes the trash bags from her bin, she notices a familiar item showing through one of the bags.

7	She quickly removes a draft copy of the memo she saw earlier on the cubicle chair.	 A woman with her hair in a bun, wearing a dark jacket, is shown in profile. She is looking down at a white document she is holding with both hands. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.
8	Looking around and seeing no one in the area, she folds the paper and puts it into her pocket.	 The same woman from the previous image is shown from a slightly different angle. She is looking towards the camera with a slight, cautious expression. Her hands are near her waist, suggesting she is tucking something into her pocket. A trash can is visible in the lower-left corner of the frame.
